A GUIDE TO GOLF IN THE PROVINCE

Golf course: Sherry Golf Jerez
The province of Cadiz is located in southern Europe, where the old continent meets Africa - hardly separated by the Straits of Gibraltar. Thanks to this privileged geographic position, Cadiz today has one of the best tourist offers in Spain.

Cadiz has always been proud of its art: the art of flamenco, the art of gastronomy, cultural art and now... art on the greens.

Severiano Ballesteros, Nick Faldo, Tiger Woods, Colin Montgomerie, Olazábal, Sergio García...the best golfers in the world have left us with some great memories on these southern Andalusian courses; some by winning the Ryder Cup in Valderrama, others by triumphing at the Volvo Masters in Montecastillo. Some, like R. Trent Jones and Jack Nicklaus, have even made their mark by designing the courses.

The best thing about the province of Cadiz is its sheer variety: putting with a breathtaking view of the Mediterranean or the Atlantic, testing yourself on the links, enjoying the fast greens or weaving your way between lakes and bunkers.

There are twenty-two courses in all, and thousands of golfing enthusiasts come to the province of Cadiz to follow in the footsteps of the greats; to a place where environmental consideration is a priority. A sustainable destination, given that 30% of its territory is protected.

There have been many reasons to come to Cadiz in over 3,000 years of history. And golf is one of them, although there are many others - visiting the bodegas in Jerez, for example, and ending up like Lord Byron, saying, “Oh Cadiz, wonderful Cadiz, you are the best place in the world!”

Whichever way you look at it, this province has plenty to see: fashion in Tarifa, the charm of the old towns, the skilful town planning and Arabic architecture in Medina Sidonia, Vejer, Castellar and Jimena de la Frontera - all with their historic past evident in battlements, castles, landscapes, crafts and walls.

Cadiz is well worth seeing, and above all enjoying. Like golf, this province always has something else to give: spectacular beaches, the heights of the Grazalema Nature Reserve (Biosphere Reserve), and the opportunity to spot dolphins and whales in the Gibraltar Strait.

In the north, there’s the “White Towns Route” from Sanlúcar de Barrameda to the entrance to the National Doñana Nature reserve, or Jerez, a place where even the horses dance... So if you come to see us, don’t miss the chance to visit the Royal Andalusian School of Equestrian Art or the Cartuja stud farm.

In Sotogrande, Costa Ballena and Sancti Petri, it’s all about luxury within reach; the Strait and the Bay of Cadiz are a birds’ paradise, while in the heart of the province is the Alcornocales Nature Park, a primitive forest - the best preserved woods on the Iberian Peninsula.

Cadiz has always been very picturesque: it is a land for bohemians searching for that sense of colonial glory, for kings in five-star palaces, for those harking back to the discovery of Latin America, for treasure hunters, bikers, for Indiana Jones’ fans, Formula 1 experts, forest-loving Robin Hoods and gourmands.

So if you’re looking for that something special, come to Cadiz – you’re sure to enjoy it.

Eighteen-hole course; short but strategic. Situated in the middle of an old pine forest, it benefits from refreshing Atlantic breezes and the longest beaches on the Costa de la Luz.

With wide greens and a soft terrain mould, the lakes also make up part of the game. Flora and fauna are a constant presence throughout the course.

It stands out for its commitment to youth and sport through the Pitch & Putt Practeegolf course, designed by Manuel Piñero.
18-hole course suitable for all golf enthusiasts, presenting orographic difficulties, trees and lakes that add plenty of diversion to the game.

Its 6,410 metres are full of attractions that will capture the attention of both expert players and amateurs.

The kingdom of water: this is the Cadiz course with the most lakes. It is situated on the Bay of Cadiz and in the land of seafood and fine wine. The emblem of Spain - the Osborne bull - can also be found in the surrounding bodegas.

Private course with narrow fairways, numerous bunkers and difficult greens over 9 holes. The easterly wind makes its presence felt, adding a touch of difficulty and driving the game on.

It has nine paddle courts, six tennis courts, 7 football pitches, indoor football pitch and equestrian area with more than 50 boxes.

Accessible for amateurs, yet also offers a demanding challenge for professionals. With narrow fairways and wide greens in line with the new design of American golf courses: safe in the game, interesting and with movement, with no steep slopes that make the game a drag.

It has a pitch & putt course.

Seen from above, the bunker at the 6th hole is in the shape of a horse – emblem of the city of Jerez, which in turn is well known for its wine and flamenco dancing.
One of the most dynamic courses for tournaments. Whatever your handicap or passion, Villanueva has an activity to suit you.
Alcaidesa Heathland enjoys soft hilly landscapes and is scattered with the typical trees of the region. Prestigious designer Dave Thomas has succeeded in making this course the best venue for any kind of competition.

The rolling landscape of the course together with almost two kilometres of beach creates a spectacular scene.

Its driving range has 72 places (half of which are covered) while the spacious practice zone has a putting green, bunkers and short shot area.

The clubhouse perfectly combines modernity with traditional Andalusian style and is situated between the two courses Alcaidesa Link and Alcaidesa Heathland.

Nestled between the Mediterranean and Alcornocales Natural Park; the famous winds that make the region so good for water sports dominate the course almost like another player, spurring you on wherever you go.

Unique golf course (links) in southern Europe, typically Scottish in design and with some spectacular views of the Peñón de Gibraltar and the mountains of North Africa.
27-hole course situated five minutes from the beach and opposite the hotel of the same name.

Surrounded by natural landscapes of pine and cork oak, with three natural lakes creating their own ecosystem, Almenara allows you to combine various routes and play three courses in one.

Founded in 1982, La Cañada Golf Club has 18 holes (par 71); the first 9 were designed by David Thomas and the rest by Robert Trent Jones Sr. Entertaining yet relatively short fairways, quick greens, large groves and wonderful views of the Mediterranean make this an ideal course for lovers of sunshine and nature.

It has a 250 m practice fairway, 2 putting greens and an approach zone.
Located in golf’s golden mile between the Guadiaro River and the Sotogrande Marina, the course was inaugurated in 1964. It has big greens and long tees, which requires plenty of variation in positioning the flags and adds difficulty and emotion to the game.

First golf course in the province of Cadiz and the first in Europe designed by Robert Trent Jones Sr. Established in 1964, it is considered one of the best ten courses on the continent.

Ryder Cup was held here in ’97

Ranked number one in the list of best courses in continental Europe and venue for the Ryder Cup in 1997 and the Volvo Masters between 2002 and 2008, this course measures 6,356 m. The course comprises spacious yet occasionally challenging fairways designed by the American Robert Trent Jones.

It also has numerous “wildlife refuges”. Among the species that live here is the remarkable European otter, which is listed as endangered in Andalusia. Valderrama is the ideal peaceful spot for their conservation, given their nocturnal preferences.

Valderrama leads the way in environmental certification. Way back in 1997 it had already received endorsement from the American association Audubon, and it was also the first European course to obtain maximum recognition from the European Union in terms of law ISO 14001.

It has tennis and paddle courts and first-class equestrian facilities, great for both beginners and experts.

Seve Ballesteros was also involved in designing the second course (New Course) - launched in 2004 - which takes advantage of its natural surroundings and is a very technical route.
